Don Craig On Library Board

On the recommendation of Mayor John Chitwood, the city council appointed Donald Craig to the Carmel Library Board last night, to fill out the term of William Gahagan who has gone to Europe.

Mrs. Gerrit Henry was reappointed to serve a second term.

Those who have followed Donald Craig's record on the city council and planning commission will hope that his acceptance of this appointment is an indication that soon he will be willing to return to more demanding public office.

A native of San Francisco, Mr. Craig graduated from St. Mary's College where he was an All-American football player. He received his master's degree from the University of California and became a member of the Carmel High School faculty in 1940, the year Carmel High School was established.

His specialties are Spanish and History, which he teaches now at Carmel High School, in addition to coaching the line on the football team. Before he left for the war, he also presided over the journalism department.

In command of a squadron of PT Boats, he destroyed shipping in the Mediterranean, and later in the Pacific. But he was prouder of his record of not losing a single man under his command than of the exploits that won him the Navy Cross. He held the rank of Commander.

Immediately after his release from the Navy, citizens representing the ideals of "old Carmel," among them the late Clara Kellogg and Fred Bechdolt, persuaded him to stand for the city council, and successfully supported his election.

As a council member from 1946 to 1954 and of the planning commission from 1947 to 1955, he showed exceptional understanding of Carmel values and skill in keeping them.

BY ROSALIND SHARPE

At their home on Carmel Point, newly-weds Roy and Elayne Chanslor (Elayne Lavrans), are happily planning a lifetime of living and working together. Roy Chanslor, who has written no less than fifty-six movies, is the author of several novels including Lowdown, Hi Nelly, Hazard, The Naked I, The Trouble with Paradise, Johnny Guitar and, most recent one, The Ballad of Cat Ballou. Most of his novels have been made into movies, and Cat Ballou, which was published in 1956, is currently being prepared for a picture by Hecht-Hill-Lancaster.

At the moment he is working on two more novels which are not quite finished.

How does Elayne come into this? She writes ballads. She set Roy Chanslor's Ballad of Cat Ballou and his song The High Lonesome to music, and they are hoping to write more ballads, songs and stories together.

Elayne Lavrans, who first startled the Peninsula at the age of 13 as a musical prodigy when she was a pupil of David Alberto's and writing strange, minor-keyed piano things which were Norwegian in feeling and vaguely reminiscent of Sibelius, has spent almost her entire life in this area except for the period when she attended Curtis Institute and studied with Rosario Scalero. For many years she gave piano lessons at her home on Carmel Point, but also wrote chamber music, which reminded one of Mozart, plus several dance suites.

When the Mozart angle was mentioned Mrs. Chanslor, at her most charming in a red velvet blouse with black slacks, looked amused and said, "I wish I could write like Mozart, but I never have".

Her interest in ballads is comparatively recent and stems largely from her work with Roy Chanslor on The Ballad of Cat Ballou.

"I am now very interested in folk music", she said, "And in percussion especially. So the ballads are a natural evolution".

She explained that at one time she had regarded folk music as a negligible form of art; but had suddenly discovered it, mainly through an appreciation of Haitian folk music.

"I naturally wrote counterpoint", she went on, "before I ever studied counterpoint. But now I'm going back in some strange way to the essence of it in music. The more you go along, the more you get simpler. As you live, you get more and more to the core of things".

Through this evolution of arriving at an interest in ballads and folk music, she and her new husband have a great deal to work with together; for he has become interested in writing stories which have songs running along with them, as in The Ballad of Cat Ballou.

Roy Chanslor's career is a fascinating, highly integrated and condensed one. A success story from beginning to end. He was a boy who grew up with a purpose and carried out that purpose. His intention, from the time he was very young, was to be a writer. He never wanted to be anything except a writer.

When asked why, he said, "Among other things it seemed the easiest g.d. way to make a living I ever heard of".

Carmel Planners Ask Support In Fighting "Knolls"

The Carmel Planning Commission will protest Carmel Knolls subdivision at the mouth of the Valley, members indicated when they studied the contour map of the subdivision yesterday afternoon.

Carmel Knolls begins at the Carmel Valley road East of the proposed Hatton Canyon freeway and extends along the Valley road to Rancho Rio Vista subdivision. It parallels the freeway along its west boundary and in the north ends in a westerly extension of Rio Vista with minimum size lots of 10,000 square feet in an area zoned for one acre lots.

A service station is planned near the Valley road frontage and a motel and restaurant on the west side of the old Hatton home. The slightly less than an acre site of the Hatton house is excluded from subdivision developments.

"Imagine all the laundry along the freeway," said Commissioner Herbert Blanks pointing out that the lots flanking the freeway would presumably have their drying yards separated from the highway only by a fence, "the same situation as San Francisco bay area subdivisions," he envisaged for the other commissioners.

Commissioner Hugh Smith pointed out that higher areas in the region would look down on Carmel knolls subdivision much as Hatton Fields Mesa looks down on Mission Fields.

Commissioner Blanks also objected to the long cul-de-sac road development centered by Carmel Knolls Drive running the length of the subdivision with dead-end sideroads named for members of the board of directors of Monterey Peninsula Associates.

Definite protest against the Carmel Knolls development will be framed by the planning commission in regular meeting on December 11 and forwarded to the county planning commission which meets December 17. In the meantime write your city and county planning commissioners Carmel commission members suggested to citizens who do not approve of Carmel Knolls.

Planting Must Break Or Screen Blacktop, Board To Tell Schultz

Carmel Planning Commission members, considering the Schultz building planting and offstreet parking plan yesterday afternoon in study session, indicated their landscaping policy in future considerations of motel development in Carmel.

Offstreet parking should be placed out of sight behind buildings as much as possible. Parking areas should be broken up with "islands" of planting or other materials. Thirdly, planting should be massed to screen parking, and to break up severe outlines of buildings, preferably with trees creating an atmosphere in keeping with the character of Carmel. Natural vegetation should be retained wherever possible.

"And we'll turn down plans until we get this," said Commission Chairman George Willox.

Under the new interim ordinance passed by the council last night, the planning commission may demand that 15 percent of a building site be devoted to landscaping. They may allow less area for planting if the landscaping is designed in keeping with their policy.

Carmel Safe From Jail For Twenty Years; Council Labors Fruitfully

Three city councilmen did a ten-man job last night, winding up hang-over business, some of it three and four months old. Mayor John Chitwood; Councilmen James Buffington and Everett May worked from 8:00 o'clock until midnight, buying things, saying no, passing ordinances and making a deal.

Candy, compliments of the Mayor of Eighty Acres (Building Inspector Floyd Adams) revived the council, press, city officials, Mrs. Chitwood, Mrs. William Askew, Bill Askew, Jr., and a three-man audience, during the low vitality hour from 11:00 o'clock until midnight.

The "deal" will free Carmel from the menace of a home town jail for 20 years. Council voted to contribute $3700 toward Monterey's new jail building fund. In return, Carmel may lodge its occasional delinquents in the Monterey jail at $10.50 per prisoner per night, lodging fee to be renegotiated at the end of five years.

"For a city that does not want a jail, this is a very advantageous arrangement," Mayor John Chitwood remarked.

American Legion Provides Package Depot For P. O.

The panic is over. Santa will have a place to light in Carmel this year, in spite of the gloomy forebodings of Acting Postmaster Fred Strong, who told the Pine Cone last week that there is no available empty building for a package depot this year.

The men of the American Legion have agreed to rent their hall to the postoffice. Starting Monday, when you get a notice in your postoffice box that there is a package for you, you'll proceed down Dolores Street, east side, until you come to the Legion Hall, half way between Eighth and Ninth. Hours at the package depot are 8:00 to 5:00 o'clock.

If there is postage due or it is a C.O.D. package, you'll settle for it and get it at the postoffice.

Package mailing will proceed at the main postoffice, as usual, and the postoffice will be open Saturday afternoons until 5:00 o'clock starting December 14.

Four or five additional clerks will be hired to help handle the Christmas pressure.

Unincorp To Vote On Annexation For Fire District Tonight

A general meeting of Carmel Unincorporated is called for tonight at the high school cafeteria at 8:00 o'clock, Captain Archer Allen, president of the organization announces.

All property owners of the unincorporated area around Carmel are asked to attend, whether or not they are members of Carmel Unincorporated, since a vote will be taken on whether they should petition for annexation to the City of Carmel or should again attempt to form a fire district.

Other business will be to elect a a board of directors for 1958. Tom Perry, Charles Dean and Frank Moller are the members of the nominating committee.

Community Sing, Mixed Chorus Program, Dec. 15

The Christmas season brings the annual Yuletide Concert, presented through the joint cooperation of the Peninsula Mixed Chorus and the Carmel Woman's Club. The program this year will take place at the Woman's Club, December 15, at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon and is open to all, free of charge.

The Chorus, a class of the Carmel Adult School, is under the direction of John Farr, and Peggy Aitkenhead serves as accompanist. The program will include several medieval carols, a Bach Choral, traditional carols and two modern American folk carols, interspersed with audience participation in singing of many of the familiar and well-loved carols. Following the musical program, hot spiced cider and holiday cookies will be served from the gaily decorated tables by members of the chorus.

The Chanslors Work Together, Writing And Composing

about him and is amused at the plaint of authors who claim that writing is hard work. He tends to think they exaggerate it and put it on. The obvious comment is that perhaps Roy Chanslor is that rare, unheard of creature, a born writer. It is easy for him because it comes naturally. And, unlike those who grind it out by the sweat of their brows, he takes great pleasure in it.

He started out, in the usual way, as a newspaperman in New York at the age of 23. He worked for awhile as a sports reporter, then became a re-write man on the New York Evening Post and the Evening American, also worked for the Washington, D.C. branch of United Press.

Altogether he spent eight or nine years on sports and news jobs, then became associate literary editor of the New York Evening Post, which meant being a make-up man and doing headline writing.

At this point he wrote his first novel, Lowdown, published by Farrar and Rinehart, and as a result of this got a job in Hollywood in 1931 with Columbia Pictures. This was only to be the start of a long movie career. He worked on this for nine months, then went back to New York where he free-lanced short stories published, mainly, in Liberty, Cosmopolitan and Bluebook.

His next novel, Hi Nelly, about a man who became a columnist giving advice to the lovelorn, sold to Warner Brothers, and was several times made into a movie. The first time it appeared under its original title Hi Nelly and starred Paul Muni. The next time it was re-made with Ann Sheridan and Ronnie Regan and called Love Is On the Air. The third time it starred George Brent and Brenda Marshall, but Roy Chanslor can't remember the title. It was made twice more, as a movie, but Roy Chanslor can't remember the stars or titles.

"Each time it got a little lower grade," was his brief comment.

The same story has recently appeared on T.V. starring Don De Sore and Virginia Gray.

It was obvious that Roy Chanslor had the golden touch. Everything he wrote sold; and when it sold, the movies usually bought it also.

Following the Hi Nelly success, he went back to Hollywood under Warner Brothers contract as a screen writer in 1934. Altogether he spent thirteen years as a screen writer in Hollywood and wrote the astonishing total of fifty-six films. In 1947 he quit the movies and went back to novels again. The novel, Hazard, sold to Paramount and starred Paulette Goddard.

His next two novels were The Naked I and The Trouble with Paradise, published by Crown. With Johnny Guitar he turned to a western theme. This novel, too, was produced in Hollywood, starring Joan Crawford.

Career-wise, this brings Roy Chanslor up to date except for the Ballad of Cat Ballou which is currently being prepared for movie production. The song The Ballad of Cat Ballou for which Elayne Lavrans wrote the music, is being published as a song, but has been held back because "we want the picture to come out first".

Incidentally, Roy Chanslor's first literary effort was published in The Smart Set, a now defunct magazine which published early F. Scott Fitzgerald, Hemingway, Witter Bynner, etc. He said that as a student at the University of California he "took all the writing courses and never wrote anything". Off campus, however, he worked on a little magazine called the Laughing Horse.

In summation Roy Chanslor said, "I like to write. I enjoy it. My job is to be a writer. I get fun out of it. I feel I only function completely when I work."

So it is a working career that Roy and Elayne Chanslor are settling down to on Carmel Point.

Other plans? "To live in Carmel permanently".

Les Sylphides, all-white Christmas ballet, will be companion piece to The Little Match Girl, when Joanne Nix presents her annual holiday ballet on the evenings of December 10, 11 and 12 at the Nix Studio Theater, Carmel. Deirdre Carney and Gay Morris are seen in scene from Les Sylphides. Music is by Chopin. The Little Match Girl, with choreography by Joanne Nix, and music by Tchaikowsky, is based on the Hans Christian Andersen Christmas fairy tale. New sets and costuming are planned for its premiere performance on Tuesday, December 10. A single matinee will be seen at the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium, Saturday, December 14.

Puppies Must Stay Home; Monterey Co. Is Rabies Area

Rabies vaccination clinics will be set up throughout the county during January according to Dr. Don Caswell, Monterey County veterinarian. The clinics will coincide with relicensing of dogs for 1958, All dogs in Monterey County, except those confined strictly to their owner's property every day of the year, must be licensed, and state law now requires that a rabies vaccination must be given before a license can be obtained.

Monterey County has been designated a "rabies area" by the State Health Department and given 60 days in which to establish a health control program.

Every dog in Carmel must be licensed and vaccinated under city ordinance, and all dogs under four months old must be confined to owner's premises according to State law.

A rabies immunization shot is effective for two years Dr. Ralph Weston, local veterinarian, told the Pine Cone this week. Owner of a dog vaccinated last year must present a certificate of immunization at the time of relicensing in January.

FIRE AT JUNE SIMPSON'S

Carmel Fire Department answered a call to the June Simpson Restaurant on Lincoln Street between Fifth and Sixth Avenues early yesterday afternoon and extinguished a trash fire started by hot ashes which ignited the cardboard carton in which they had been placed beside the building. Glass was broken in several windows from the heat of the burning trash.

Carmel PTA Favors Annexation 5 To 1

A show of hands at the Carmel High School P.T.A. meeting on Tuesday night showed that, out of the 150 persons present, 49 favored annexing Tularcitos and Carmelo districts to Carmel. Ten persons were against the Valley schools' joining the Carmel district.

Those who did not vote, when asked the reason they had refrained by P.T.A. President Colonel Robert E. Osborne, indicated they felt annexation should be the decision of Carmel School Board members, whom they thought able and well-informed enough to decide the matter on December 17.

When Colonel Osborne asked if a committee should be formed to explore details of annexation, the audience loudly applauded Mark Raggett who said "No! the school board has all the information necessary."

Earlier in the evening Superintendent of Schools Stuart Mitchell presented financial details of annexation to P.T.A. members.

Your TV Santa

Dear Folks:

I would like to come to your house for Christmas . . . and stay forever.

You'll find that I take very little space. You will also find that you can "keep me" for only a few pennies a day.

In return . . . I promise to keep you entertained and happy. In your own living room, week after week, I will bring you —

— the brightest stars in the entertainment world;
— the best in Broadway-type plays and dramatic productions;
— a personal look at news events in all sections of the globe;
— outstanding sports events;
— fun and interesting information for the children;

— in short, the new and wonderful and exciting TELEVISION experiences being enjoyed by millions of Americans in New York, Chicago, Hollywood, Washington — and the house down the street.

Can you think of a more wonderful Christmas gift for the whole family? Here's a gift that keeps repeating itself, keeps reminding folks of your thoughtfulness, day in and out, all year long.

Now — here's the easy way to move the best of TELEVISION into your home right along with the Christmas tree. Make a date — right now — with our television department. See the attractive, economical, trouble-free television receivers we have to offer. Talk to him (Santa secret, if you wish) about making a connection with the TV cable before Christmas Eve arrives.

And, if you follow these suggestions, I will guarantee you

Valley Schools File Petitions For Annexation Election

Carmelo School District filed its petition in the county clerk's office this morning, Tularcitos will file this afternoon, asking the county superintendent of schools to call an election for annexation of the two valley school districts to Carmel Unified School District.

Carmelo district, with 332 registered voters, had 216 signatures; Tularcitos, with a registration of 1070, has 560. The required number of signatures is 50 percent of the electorate of each district.

The committees spent yesterday at the county clerk's office checking their petitions with the election lists to make sure they had a sufficient number of valid signatures.

The petitions will be presented to the county school board and an election will be called in each of the districts to vote on the annexation issue.

If the election succeeds, all that is needed to complete the annexation is the approval of the Carmel Unified School District Board. The board's policy in the past has been not to influence neighboring districts to join the Carmel District, but to accept them when they seek annexation.

Lions Xmas Tree Sale Starts Monday

One of the first sure signs of the onset of another Christmas season this week was the appearance of the Carmel Lions Club's new stock of Christmas trees in the lot at the corner of Ocean Avenue and Junipero. This tree lot, the only one in Carmel, will open for business Monday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock and will be staffed every day thereafter by members of the Lions Club from 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon until 8:00 in the evening.

Club members, under the direction of Charles Seaver, Michael Balazs, Joe Oenning and Stanley Ewig, have brought a fine selection of silver-tips and spruce down from the high Sierra. In past years the club has worked in cooperation with the Kiwanis, but this year will rely entirely on its own members to run the sale. Reasonable prices are assured because the trees have been bought directly from the source of supply in the mountains.

All receipts from sale of the trees, after payment of costs, will be placed in the Community Betterment Fund of the Lions Club, which has undertaken a number of extensive projects in recent years, such as grading of the new baseball field at Carmel High School, and the modernizing of a classroom at Sunset. Special orders will be taken for the larger types of trees not carried in stock because of limited demand.

Pages From Gay's Diary

Carmelite Gay Kuster shares some of her year abroad with her friends here in the following pages from her diary. She'll be back in Carmel next month.

The bus for Estepona next day took a bit of finding, but we tracked it down to a depot of sorts near the waterfront. To this we transferred luggage which, unlike us, had travelled by air from London. This journey for some reason had taken a week, with customs examination. Now, resting on the roof of the Malaga-Algeciras bus, our baggage looked strange company for the country chattels piled around it. Baskets . . . all sorts of baskets, some with fruit, others with eggs and even livestock in them. It is an experience worth having, that of getting into a Spanish bus 15 minutes before it starts. We stepped over a basket in which two hens sat comfortably, cluttering the narrow floor space near the door. Soon a child got on, one hand clinging to her mother's shawl, the other clutching a live rabbit to her small chest. It seemed an eternity before the driver got on, but every moment of it was filled with the rapid staccato chatter of Spanish women. Old women with fringed black shawls and younger women with transparent black veils (nylon, nowadays), often over kinkily permanented hair.

Outside there was chatter, too. Men one usually sees lounging against buildings were, judging by their numbers, unofficial helpers in the business of loading. When the seats were filled, as well as every inch of standing room, the bus took off. Turning its nose toward the sea, it careened around turns, honked at groups of pedestrians talking in the road, at old people and children stopping to watch it pass, at pitifully thin dogs and lowly automobiles, and at the ever-present donkeys. These little beasts of burden are used for every sort of labor and drayage, but are most commonly seen with baskets on their sides. So stuffed and piled are they that their contents meet in the middle, spread over the animal's back and form a heap far higher than himself. In fact there is often nothing to be seen of el burro from the rear but two thin legs supporting what looks like a travelling haystack. We soon grew as accustomed to donkeys in Spain as to buses in London. Sometimes they pulled wooden carettas with huge thick-spoked wheels. At these times their bridles were as colorful as the saddle blankets they wore beneath the baskets. Occasionally the carts were drawn by two and three donkeys, or even mules, for prodigious loads; but, in any case, always in tandem because of the narrow roads.

Too often a driver could be seen taking his ease lying on a shaft of the cart as it moved along, singing away and swinging his legs, while the poor little animal plodded on, the weight of the man added to his load.

Our bus stopped at every waystation and hamlet. Between these habitations vari-colored fields spread over the rolling countryside from the highway to the hills, their squares and diamond shapes like newly-ironed scarves. Blue-green of mountain wheat — polka-dot-gray of cabbages — yellow-green of bearded barley — and an occasionall square striped with the lupin flowers of peas.

Few grape-vines came into view, and these were short brown stubbles as yet. Fig trees, too, although embracing with their smooth silvery arms every barn or cottage we passed, betrayed no hint of all their wealth in store. But olives, that was different. Their lovely mound-shaped trees were everywhere. Distant groves, like myriad puffs of smoke on the red earth, dotted the bases of hills and sometimes rimmed the sea.

The sea . . . this ancient Mediterranean we were seeing for the first time, lay like a polished table, silvery-blue; its only movement made by little lappings on the shore, as though a wind riffled the white lace of its edges. On the beach clusters of small grass huts hob-nobbed beside overturned weather-beaten boats. These puzzled us by their contrast with the villages we passed, whose houses piled up, pueblo-style, like a pyramid of white-washed building-blocks, each with a russet roof of tiles, the whole topped by a church tower. These were as typical of Analucia as the thatch-roofed barns we saw everywhere, which had bamboo frames laced with palm leaves. Their doorways, too, were lattices of bamboo and leaves. White-washed farm cottages were often thatched, as well, then cane stitched across them horizontally, like quilting.

Nearing Estepona, we began to study our conversation-book, "All You Need in Spain," also our supply of pesetas, both coins and incredibly dirty paper money. Here are some examples of daily expenses. For instance, that taxi which rattled us from the station to our Malaga hotel, a two-mile drive with considerable baggage, was 40 pesetas, or 90 cents. Our subsequent supper of veal stewed in white wine, the vegetables, bread and butter and a bottle of red wine (not to mention the singing!) was 42 pesetas. Ted left 50, in all; roughly $1.25. The street car, a wobbly little toy on narrow tracks, the next morning, cost us 1½ cents each. A shoe-shine in the bus depot before we left for Estepona — and those who have seen the film, "Pepote," will realize that you cannot sit down to a cognac in a sidewalk cafe, or wait for a bus, without being politely asked to have your shoes shined—was 6 cents, for which I gave 10. Our lunch, of an omelette, ham sandwich and wine, was 35 pesetas. And so on. Our bus from Malaga, 80 kilometres (about 50 miles) was 99 pesetas for us both, or $2.30. So the price of a taxi to "Santa Marta" thereafter, for the final ten kilometres, which was the same as for the entire bus ride, was a disagreeable surprise.

YOSEMITE'S TIOGA ROAD

Work was started last summer on the improvement of the final 21-mile section of the road leading from Yosemite Valley to Tuolumne Meadows, known as the Tioga Road. The entire distance is 55 miles but the first 34 miles had already been improved and paved. Many people who have seen what is being done on the present job have now baptized it as the Tioga Turnpike.

Tuolumne Meadows have always been considered one of the great beauty spots of Yosemite National Park. At an elevation of about 850 feet above sea level, they combine all the best characteristics of the Sierra alpine region in a broad almost level series of forest-enclosed grasslands with high granite domes and peaks rising quite abrupty above them. They are almost as well known to lovers of the mountains as Yosemite Valley itself.

The Sierra Club has long been concerned about the type of road that should be constructed as approaches to the higher regions of the national parks. An article in the Sierra Club Bulletin for June, 1949, by Harold C. Bradley, now President of the Club, and David R. Brower, now Executive Director of the Club, lists the following disadvantages of a completed highspeed road from Yosemite Valto Tuolumne Meadows.

(1) It invites speeds which are dangerous and at which little is seen except the road itself.

(2) It will promote crowding and overdevelopment in the Tuolumne Meadows region, just as happened in Yosemite Valley when effortless access was provided.

(3) It will complete the missing and critical link for a fast trans-Sierra highway which will serve not only park visitors, but the general business public which may need to cross the range, east or west.

(4) Effortless driving for the park visitor at any desired speed, along with increasing use as a general public-service corridor through the park, will certainly produce some profound changes in a region whose chief charm today lies in its semi-primitive quality.

After much correspondence and many talks with representatives of the National Park Service, including the Director himself, the work was finally started this summer. The Director had given assurance that he was in favor of a narrow road, with turn-outs for people who want to stop and enjoy the scenery. The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, which usually has charge of road construction in national parks, had wanted a wide high-speed road but the Park Service Director stated at a recent meeting with the Executive Committee of the National Parks Association that he had persuaded them to lower the standards.

Work has now progressed to the point where the public can see what is being done. The final result is going to be a 26-foot wide paved road with grades of less than six percent and wide-radius curves. This will certainly invite 70-mile-an-hour driving. Although the speed limit on the completed section of the road is 45 miles per hour, lack of policing will certainly cause most motorists to travel at higher speeds.

Thus all the dangers foreseen in the Bradley-Brower article are now upon us, in spite of National Park Service assurances to the contrary. Friends of the national parks are rightly worried at trends of this kind in the entire national park system. Pressure of commercial influences for more travel and more money spending is undoubtedly behind it.

Can conservationists who are interested in preserving some of our wilderness values stem this tide at all? It is a challenge that needs the interest and cooperation of all who cherish our national parks for their intrinsic worth.

Anna Patterson

Mrs. Anna Louise Patterson died on Sunday afternoon in a local rest home after a long illness. She was born on March 25, 1870, at Point Lobos, the daughter of John and Mary Sousa. Her father originally came from Portugal as master of a whaling vessel which operated from the whaling station on Point Lobos. Later he decided to settle here and homestead the Sousa Ranch down the coast in the 1870s. This property is still owned by his descendants, one of whom was Mrs. Patterson.

Her marriage to Steve Patterson took place on August 22, 1922, in San Jose. Until his retirement some years ago Mr. Patterson owned and operated a restaurant in Carmel.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Patterson is survived by a daughter, Sherlie Patterson of Carmel; two nephews, Jesse Draper and Leo J. Cummings of the Coast Route; a grand-nephew, Raymond Draper of Carmel; and a grandiece, Mrs. Orlene Ray of Monterey.

Rosary was recited yesterday evening in the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel. Requiem Mass was celebrated this morning in Carmel Mission following brief rites in the Dorney and Farlinger Chapel. Burial took place in the Monterey Catholic Cemetery.

Nuclear power now helps serve Northern California

P. G. and E. customers first with privately-financed atomic electricity

CUSTOMERS OF P. G. AND E. are the world's first users of atomic electricity produced commercially in a privately-financed plant—the new Vallecitos Atomic Power Plant near Pleasanton.

This history-making achievement in the peaceful use of atomic energy is a joint developmental project of the General Electric Company and P. G. and E. The plant's output of A-electricity flows into P. G. and E.'s transmission network which serves Northern and Central California. It is helping to light your home and run your appliances right now.

Atomic electricity no different

A-electricity is just the same as other electricity. The only difference is that nuclear fuel is used instead of the usual fossil fuels (oil, gas and coal) to make the steam which turns the generators.

A-electricity now costs more in the United States than power made in conventional plants. It will not become a basic power supply here until it costs no more than electricity made with fossil fuels or falling water.

The future of commercial nuclear power

G-E and P. G. and E. joined forces at Vallecitos to gain experience and know-how from building an atomic plant and operating it for everyday commercial service. The lessons being learned and the experiments being conducted at Vallecitos are hastening the day when A-plants will become economical. We will be ready with low-cost A-electricity long before the inevitable depletion of the fossil fuel supply.

Thus, P. G. and E. customers may continue to be assured of power ahead of their needs as well as the best possible service at the lowest possible cost.

Sporting NOTES

Basketball

Friday, Dec. 6 — Gilroy High at Carmel, 7:00 p.m. (League).

Tuesday, Dec. 10— Carmel High at Pacific Grove, 5:00 p.m. (League).

PADRES HOST GILROY MUSTANGS FRIDAY NIGHT

First league action for the Carmel High basketball squads is set for tomorrow night when the Gilroy High Mustangs invade the Carmel pavilion for a pair of league jousts with the Red and Gray hoopsters. At opposite ends of the ladder in the opinions of the league experts, Gilroy and Carmel present the team most likely to succeed against the small school with big ambitions to make a good showing against the likes of Gilroy, Hollister, and Pacific Grove.

Gilroy is picked by the experts to finish well in front of the other challengers for the B-division hoop crown while little Carmel is way down with the also-rans. However, the Padres have been overlooked before and have surprised the big ones by a great display of team spirit and an overwhelming desire to win. Not gifted with the big 6-4 hardwood artists, the Padres must rely on team hustle and good all-around fundamentals to keep abreast with the likes of Gilroy, Hollister, and Pacific Grove.

This year's Carmel squad is manned by a good nucleus of experienced hands and some newcomers to varsity ball who threaten to elbow their way into the starting lineup. Bill Hicks, Art Wilkerson, and Dale Dawson are veteran performers with the Carmel High hoop squads and figure to lend professional assistance to the likes of Frank Wallace, Lee Harms, Fred Nelson, Phil Durbrow, Tim O'Shea, Jim Lee, Andy Gray, and John Wilkin.

Coach Bob Hagen's Gilroy Mustangs won the league title last season and have four starters back from last year's championship club. With such good ones as Smith, Meiers, Enos, and Felice back to defend the 1956-57 title, the Blue & White Mustangs must be accorded the favorite's role in this year's title chase. Coach Hagen is particularly high on his team this season and has high hopes that the Mustang varsity will receive an invite to the Berkeley Tournament of Champions in March.

Friday night's preliminary game between the two lightweight squads should provide as much fireworks as the big one between the varsities. The Little Padres have been taken to the cleaners twice already this season at the hands of Monterey and Watsonville but figure to make a better showing against Coach Westwater's Ponies. Lack of rebounding strength and an aggressive attack has hampered the Padrecitos in the first two outings but recent workouts indicate the Red & Gray lightweights are about to put together a solid basketball game. The Padre Babes will open with a unit composed of Ron Faia and Russ Wise, forwards; John Doud, center; Pete Willcox and Walt Helm, guards. Ready to take over when the starters slow down are Larry Dufur and David Farr, forwards; Pat Boyle, center; David Hansen and Phil O'Shea, guards.

Lightweight action starts at 7 o'clock tomorrow night with the varsity squads taking over at 8 o'clock.

MONTEREY HIGH CAGERS TOO MUCH FOR PADRES

Going out of their league in more ways than one for their first hoop action of the current season, Carmel High's cagers were taught a lesson by the classy Monterey Toreadores last Friday night at the Monterey gym. The Monterey lightweights came with a second-half rush to defeat the Padre Babes, 47 to 38, while Coach Ed Larsh's Toreador varsity rode a hot shooting streak to a 64-34 win over the inexperienced Carmel varsity.

A brilliant 65-percent shooting average in the first half completely undid Carmel's varsity as the Toreadores ran off to a 39-19 halftime lead.

Carmel's lightweight aggregation shook up the big Monterey squad in the first half and actually had a 19-17 bulge going into the intermission. However, defensive mistakes proved costly to the Padre Babes in the second half and Monterey came on to pile up an insurmountable edge in the third period. Fine shooting by Russ Wise, David Farr, and Walt Helm kept the Little Padres in contention during the first half and made the favored Toreobabes hustle to eke out the verdict.

Return games at the Carmel High gym will be held on December 17.

PADRES SPLIT WITH WATSONVILLE

Winning the varsity tilt, 38 to 37, and dropping the lightweight game, 33 to 20, Carmel High's basketball squads divided a pair of non-league practice games with the Watsonville Wildcats last Tuesday afternoon at the Carmel gym. The Red & Gray varsity did a solid job of rebounding against the Wildcats and a tight man-for-man defense put the clamp on Watsonville's big scorers. With Bill Hicks, Dale Dawson, and Frank Wallace hitting consistently, the Padres broke into an early lead and held the advantage until the final buzzer. Watsonville came with a rush in the final quarter but the determined Padres hung on for the coveted victory.

A cold Carmel lightweight squad stalled on 13 points for over a quarter and bowed to a superior Wildkitten unit which dominated both backboards and outplayed the Little Padres all the way. Russell Wise hit for 10 points to lead the local lights in the scoring column.

Show From Wall Gallery Collection At Ring's, Dec. 5 - 15

Paintings from the Pat Wall Gallery collection, including some of the early works of Elwood Graham, will be on view at Ring's restaurant in Monterey commencing today and ending December 15.

Graham, whose reputation has been growing as an abstractionist, has one of his pictographs as part of the permanent collection of the San Francisco Museum of Art. Less familiar to peninsula art-lovers is the fact that at an earlier stage of his development he was interested in natural objects, and went through an impressionist period, then a semi-abstract one before evolving his present technique. Among the pictures showing at Ring's are landscapes and nudes, as well as several abstractions.

Other artists represented in the show are Robert McChesney, Tom Valiant, Henry Miller and Dan Harris.

Dan Harris, whose painting name is now Zev, has been having successful shows in Paris recently. Henry Miller, avant-garde writer who lives in Big Sur, needs no introduction to Peninsula audiences.

There will be a prevue to which all persons interested are invited from 2:00 until 5:00 o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

ST. DENIS TALK TOMORROW

Ruth St. Denis, who initiated modern dance in this country in the 1920's, will appear in a lecture demonstration in Carmel tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in The Studio on Dolores Street.

While appearing recently in six performances at the Theatre Marquee in New York City, Dance Digest says of Miss St. Denis, ". . . . She has the courage to speak openly and frankly to an audience. Also she has the showmanship and wit to hold an audience spellbound. Our current quest for technical virtuosity seems to have ignored a basic and powerful drive which is one of the mainstays of any artist. It is this spirit behind the well-trained instrument which interests Miss Ruth. . ."

In addition to lecturing, Miss

Senator Knowland To Speak At MPC

Senator William F. Knowland will speak at the Armory at Monterey Peninsula College on December 12 at 8:30 o'clock in the evening.

He will discuss general topics relating to his candidacy for governor of the state of California. State Assemblyman Alan Pattee and Congressman Charles Teague have been asked to share the platform that evening.

Pat Brown, Governor Knight, George Christopher and Clair Engle have been asked to appear for political addresses at later dates, according to Ralph Smith, political science instructor at Monterey Peninsula College.

St. Denis still teaches and dances during the summer on the East Coast at Jacob's Pillow with her husband Ted Shawn. Reservations may be made by phoning MAyfair 4-1661 daily at 1:00 to 5:00 o'clock.

The only 1958 car that offers more of everything you want... yet is priced lower than in '57

Here's great news! While prices of 1958 cars of other manufacturers are up, the price of Ford's exciting new Custom 300 Series is down. A brand-new 58 Ford Custom 300 with all of its exciting new styling and engineering advances is priced lower than a '57 model, similarly equipped!

World approved styling. A Custom 300 brings you styling that is dramatically new. With its Honeycombed grille, Slipstream roof, Deep-Sculptured rear deck, and Safety-Twin headlights and taillights, Ford styling drew admiring glances from Paris to Saigon . . . yet it's yours now in any 58 Ford Custom 300 without extra cost!

New handling ease. Slide behind the wheel of a Custom 300 and you'll soon discover just how much fun driving can be. Notice how smoothly it handles. That's Ford's new feather-touch Magic-Circle steering, the next best thing to power steering.

New riding comfort. Notice, too, the solid comfort of your ride. That's Ford's easier acting front and rear suspensions. They soak up the bumps before they reach you.

Thrifty, new engines. You have a wonderful choice of new, more efficient power plants . . . designed for real gas-saving economy plus greater performance. Six or V-8, they give you more power, smoother power, from less gas!

Priced as much as $50 lower. A comparison of manufacturer's suggested retail delivered prices shows that a 58 Ford Custom 300 is priced as much as $50 less than the same model for '57! You'll wonder how Ford can offer so many of the things you want in a car priced so low. One big reason: Ford gives you more car for less money because Fords sells more!

See and drive a Custom 300 and we believe you'll agree that these Fords give you more real value for your car-buying dollars than any car on the American road today.

If You Have Any Beefs, Speak Up Now, Says Yates

Carmel School Board Member George Yates and School Accountants B. L. Heckenlaible and Howard L. Reed met in a fact finding session with a committee of the Carmel Tax Payers Association Monday night at the latter's request.

The accountants explained that there will be no appreciable increase in taxes for the Carmel Unified School District if Carmelo and Tularcitos Districts are annexed. The Carmel Valley Districts will bring along sufficient assessed valuation and ADA allotment to carry them, they said. The figures are based on the assumption that the valley schools will operate next term at about the same cost as this.

An over-ride tax for operational expenses and a bond issue for school construction will be necessary whether or not the valley votes to join the Carmel District, Mr. Reed said. If the valley schools vote favorably on annexation in January, they will participate in any Carmel District bond election held after that date, even though they do not join the Carmel District until July 1. They would vote in the bond election and share in paying for the bonds with the Carmel District.

Mr. Yates pointed out that annexation date schedule is "the tightest I have ever seen. The Carmel School board will be asked to approve immediately after the election. If there are any objections in the Carmel District, we want to hear about them as soon as possible."

The Tax Payers Association Committee (Francis Whitaker, Mrs. Geraldine Smith and Gunnar Norberg) were appointed at a board of directors meeting last week to check on possible costs to the Carmel District of the valley annexation. Following the committee's report back to the directors, the association will make a formal statement of its approval to the school board.

Informally, the Tax Payers Association board of directors has expressed the opinion that the district would be strengthened by the unification and be in a better position to resist pressure toward a peninsula-wide school district or another movement for participation in a Monterey Junior College District.

Pianist Masselos Soloist For Dec. 16 Symphony Concert

William Masselos, young virtuoso pianist from New York, will be soloist with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra on December 16 in King Hall at the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School. He will play the Chopin Piano Concerto No. 2 with the orchestra under Director Gregory Millar.

He was chosen by the Juillard School of music in New York to play the world premiere performance of Aaron Copland's Piano Fantasy on the occasion of the School's fiftieth anniversary celebration in October. He has also appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony under Dmitri Mitropoulos and the National Symphony under Leon Barzin. He was trained at the Juillard School of Music where he was a student of Carl Friedberg and made his debut at Town Hall in New York at the age of 18.

Olin Downes in the New York Times says of Masselos "his range of understanding is astonishing for its sympathy with music". Alfred Frankenstein writes of Masselos' San Francisco concert that the young pianist gave "the most brilliant and unfailingly interesting performance of the Brahms-Paganini Variations it has ever been my privilege to hear".

William Masselos has met the same acclaim in Canada at concerts played in Montreal and Ottawa.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

Not long ago we started circulating The Square Pegs by Wallace. This is a collection of factual stories about people who attained recognition who were what the world calls crack-pots. Their life stories make interesting reading. Included among them is the Emperor Norton of San Francisco.

Combat Beneath the Sea is the account of the underwater operations of World War II, of the few hundred frog men and the operators of baby-submarines, who attained great naval success. It was written by W. C. Brou.

Clifton Fadiman has a book of essays called Any Number Can Play, and this is also the title of the first piece in the collection. He is a distinguished man of letters and this latest book is said to be for the intelligent rather than the necessarily highbrow. In it Fadiman is trying to get people to think, to stimulate them to mental trapeze work, with the idea that increased leisure time might well be spent in thinking rather than in less-rewarding pursuits.

You're Stepping on My Cloak and Dagger was written by Roger Hall after he spent most of the last war in the O.S.S. This is one of the really funny books to result from military service. Anything that could happen did happen to Roger Hall. This might make a very good Christmas gift for someone you know, especially if that person had reasons for being depressed this holiday season.

Whether or not you are especially interested in history, you will surely enjoy Diary of America by the Bergers. Here is a book which was compiled from diaries, spanning the period from Columbus to Will Rogers. Hard facts, individual spelling, quaint expressions, all are here. Some excerpts are taken from the diaries of early voyagers to California, including members of the Donner Party.

Jean Dutourd wrote The Taxis of the Marne in which he contrasts the intelligent patriotism of France during the first World War, with the gradual decline of France and her loss of dignity today. He says "French honor followed deGaulle into retirement." This book is most pertinent today for anyone interested in world affairs.

Real adventures in the Andaman islands are recounted by J. H. Williams, who will be remembered as the author of Elephant Bill. These islands are a scattered group lying between Sumatra and Burma. Williams went there with a group of released criminals to survey the prospect of using elephants to extract teak. The book is called Scent of Fear.

We have two copies of the new book Stop Dieting! Start Losing! by Ruth West. This is said to be one of the most sensible diet books to be published in years. The author goes into this business of saturated and un-saturated fats, which means much and which is often ignored by diet planners.

Among the new pieces of fiction, special attention might be called to The World of Carrick's Cove by Gerald Brace. It is a down east thing with a warm wholesome cast of characters. Well written, too. Have we mentioned Morning, by Julian Fane? It is a good first novel, about a small boy in England and the last few months of his life before he left home for boarding school. For those who delight in the adventure stories of VanWyck Mason, we have his latest which is called The Gracious Lily Affair. And many, many more.

Christina Nelson

Mrs. Christina Nelson died on November 26 at the home of her daughter Mrs. Ada R. Mollner after a period of failing health.

Mrs. Nelson was born on June 28, 1875, in Ramsasa, Sweden. She came to live in Minneapolis in 1914. Later she moved to Pasadena and made her home there for 20 years before coming to Carmel 13 months ago to live with her daughter. Her husband Andrew Nelson died in 1937.

Besides Mrs. Mollner in Carmel, Mrs. Nelson is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Esther Ekberg of Minneapolis; a brother, Bernt Lundberg of Sweden; and three grandchildren, Linnea, Arne and Nancy Ekberg of Minneapolis.

Funeral serivces, conducted by Dr. Carleton Whitehead of the Church of Religious Science, were held on November 29. Burial took place in El Carmelo Cemetery. Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Public Invited To Hear John Browning Free Of Charge

The first concert of the Monterey Peninsula College Recital Series will be held tomorrow evening when John Browning, pianist, will present a program at 8:30 o'clock in the Student Union. It is open to the public, free of charge.

John Browning, 23 years of age, started playing the piano at the age of five and made his orchestral debut at ten in a Mozart Concerto. He continued his piano training in Los Angeles and at Occidental College. Later he attended the Juillard School of Music in New York on a scholarship. His prize-winning career began at 12 with the KFI-Hollywood Bowl Young Artists' Award, followed by the Josef Lhevinne Memorial Scholarship, the Steinway Centennial Award, and the Edgar M. Leventritt Award.

In February 1956, Mr. Browning made his New York debut in Carnegie Hall with the New York Philharmonic. During the twelve months following he played more than 50 concerts in North America and Europe. A year later, he played six performances with the Eduard Van Beinum and the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

His program will include: Partita, D Major by J. S. Bach; Sonata Op. 26 by Samuel Barber; La Puerta del Vino, La plus que Lente, and General Lavine . . . eccentric by Debussy; and Etudes Symphoniques by Schumann.

Mona In England

A letter posted a few days before Mona Williams left England says she has seen two very different ways of life in that country, visiting cousins of Mrs. Brayton Witherall in Leicestershire and at the home of former Carmelites, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ogden Stewart (Ella Winter) in London.

The Leicestershire visit gave Mona a picture of English fox hunting country life in a centuries' old home as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Colwell, who invited members of their family to meet her, showed her their hounds and invited her to a hunt "pink coats and all".

At the Stewart's home in Hampstead she met writing colleagues of both Ella and Don Stewart and people from the English theater, "everyone very brilliant," she reports after one of the Stewart's Sunday afternoon "at homes" in a house inhabited also by pet tame monkeys and cockatoos. She also went to the London opening of Mr. Stewart's latest play.

She returned to San Francisco before her parents came West and is living in the city.

Pre-Symphony Talk And Tea

Gregory Millar, director of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, will discuss the influence of jazz on symphony score writing, particularly in America, at the Symphony Guild pre-concert lecture and tea in the Carmel High School music building on December 13 at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

William Masselos, piano soloist with the orchestra in the December 15 and 16 concerts will play several numbers on the Guild pre-concert program. Mr. Millar will also talk about the Paul Creston Dance Overture.

Special guests on this occasion are to be high school and junior college music students in this area and their instructors. The program is also open to all Symphony Guild members and Symphony season ticket holders as well as any person wishing to become a Guild member.

Mrs. Burton Doolittle, Symphony Guild president, will welcome guests and introduce Mr. Millar and Mr. Masselos.

Mrs. John Nesbitt is general chairman for the pre-concert lectures. Mrs. Jack J. Miller, tea chairman, is being assisted by Mrs. Loran A. List Jr. The refreshments will have a Christmas motif and holiday colors will be seen in the green cloth on the tea table centered with an arrangement of red berries, designed by Mrs. C. L. Anderson and Mrs. Milton H. Shutes. Hostesses are Mrs. Helen Arnold, Mrs. Jack Bassford, Mrs. Byron B. Blout, Mrs. William K. Stewart, Mrs. David Gill and Mrs. Philips N. Davis.

Janet Sloss Married

At home in Carmel Valley are Major and Mrs. Jack Cowan (Janet Barth Sloss) who were married on Thanksgiving Eve in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sloss of San Francisco.

White flowers were used to decorate the Sloss home for the ceremony which took place before a fireplace banked with white chrysanthemums. The bride wore a cocktail length white satin gown and a cap veil made from Alencon lace used previously by both her mother and grandmother, Mrs. Irvin Barth, at their weddings. Her bouquet was an arrangement of lilies of the valley.

The wedding and reception following were attended by a large group of Carmel Valley friends of the couple and faculty members and parents of students attending Carmel Valley Country Day and Boarding School of which Major Cowan is headmaster.

Twins Make Five Demers Sons

Mark Baugher and Timothy Henry, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Elmer Demers, were born at the Monterey Hospital on November 26 making the number of Demers sons a total of five.

"Enough for a basketball team," says their mother.

Senior players on the proposed team are Loren, almost six; Daniel, four; and William, two years old. The boys' father is a civilian wind tunnel engineer at the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School. He and his wife came here to live six years ago "so all the boys are native Californians," Mrs. Demers remarked. Grandparents of the Demers' sons are Henry A. Demers of York, Pennsylvania, and George H. Kintzing of Hanover, Pennsylvania.

Home From Three Months Abroad

Fritz Wurzmann drove into Carmel on Thanksgiving night after three months in Europe seeing plays, museums, art galleries, attending concerts and visiting friends in seven countries.

Mr. Wurzmann began his tour in England visiting Cambridge, Windsor Castle and the Tate gallery in London among other places, then flew to Frankfort, his old home, "from which I found I was peculiarly detached," he says. Berlin was next and in the Russian section of the city he sensed "a sinister feeling" and heard of shortages of such essential commodities of life as salt. Stuttgart and his old "alma mater" followed, then Munich where he met Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Klene of Carmel Valley, saw a production of Aida and attended the Oktoberfest. He enjoyed the marvelous mountain country around Innsbruck and a play in Vienna before continuing his travels in Greece. Here he found it thrilling to stand on the Acropolis in Athens and picture the Golden Age.

In Jerusalem Mr. Wurzmann again relived history while admiring the orange, banana and chicken ranches of the new state of Israel. He was particularly impressed by the greeting "Peace" given at all meetings between persons in this country.

Italy was the next country he visited and in the Doge's Palace in Venice he met the Talcott Bates family, surprised and delighted to see someone from Carmel. In Rome "the third capital of the ancient world I saw," Mr. Wurzmann had dinner with Mona Williams and her son Chris, visited art galleries, the Vatican and called on Ambassador Zellerbach and the Gahagan family from Carmel. Milan, Genoa, Pisa and Florence followed where Michael Angelo's painting and architecture most impressed Mr. Wurzmann.

He ended his European stay in France hearing a symphony in Paris, seeing the Louvre, Chartres Cathedral and other places of interest before taking a plane last Wednesday night from which he landed in New York the following morning. That evening he was in San Francisco where he was met by Mrs. Wurzmann and daughters Renee and Andrea. Thanksgiving Day they spent in Berkeley with Mrs. Wurzmann's family before driving home to Carmel in the evening.

MORE GOOD MUSIC AT "QUIET HOUR"

Another Quiet Hour of Music was given at All Saints' Sunday afternoon which drew many listeners. Worship through tones of harmony in the lovely Church is an inspiring and relaxing experience. An ensemble of local musicians consisting of Robert Forbes, organist; David Hagemeyer, Eiko Yoshizato, Charlotte Perry and Harold Nicholas, violinists ,with Marie Sales, violist; Fritz Barkan, cellist, and Camille Oleato, pianist made an ensemble which performed works by Corelli, Lotti, Tartini, Mozart, and Telemann, with Jean Canada singing two arias from The Messiah and a song by Hugo Wolf. The Reverend Harold Nicholas, assistant to the Reverend Angus Dun Jr., is adding much good music in his arrangement for the Quiet Hour, and has also created a teen-age choir for the Church which will be first heard in next Sunday's service.

Next Stamp Meeting Dec. 16

With Colonel John R. Wright presiding, the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club met in Carmel High School on Monday evening.

Visitors from the Monterey Stamp Club included the president, E. R. Blankenship, Mrs. Louise McClellan, Mrs. Gladys North, Mrs. Grace Armstrong and Miss Heather Armstrong.

E. R. Blankenship acted as auctioneer. He kept the bidding high and lively and his clever jokes kept his audience in good humor. Among the rare items put up for sale were the first United States stamp; a block of Mark Twain, and stamps of Jamaica, Russia and Germany.

Gene D. McPherson of Salinas won the first door prize. Fred Houston, vice president, won the second.

"Member participation" will be the theme of the next meeting which is the third Monday in the month and a program meeting. Refreshments will be served. Members are requested to bring stamps, talk stamps and trade stamps on December 16 in Carmel High School.

All stamp collectors on the Monterey Peninsula and their friends or relatives from elsewhere are invited to these informal gatherings.

George Beal Injured In Car Accident

George W. Beal of Seaside was taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital last evening with major injuries suffered in an accident on the Monterey - Carmel Hill at 6:15 o'clock.

Walter W. Schirmer of Carmel had a flat tire coming up the hill and stopped his car. George W. Graham, following Schirmer, stopped his truck in front of the Schirmer car to give assistance. While Schirmer and Graham were placing flares, Beal saw the lights, stepped on his brakes and his car slipped on the wet pavement, spun around and hit the Schirmer car. Schirmer and Graham were knocked down by the impact but not injured.

provided 11 percent of site for planting area or 1,338 square feet exclusive of paths and walkways. However the planting area extended in a two foot strip along the Junipero Street front and Fifth Street side of the parking area with a larger area at the north end of the site four feet below street grade.

"This eliminates any possibility of trees and does not provide adequate screening," was the opinion of Commissioner Hugh Smith.

Narrow strip perimeter planting also met with the disapproval of Commissioners Herbert Blanks, Fred Keeble and Lee Gottfried. Strategically placed "islands" breaking up parking areas was the answer to "too much blacktop" they decided and provided for the planting of trees.

"Planting should count for something," said Chairman Willox, "and have pictorial form," added Commissioner Keeble.

The Planning Commission meets this afternoon to deal officially with the Schultz landscaping and offstreet parking plan studied yesterday afternoon.

PRIZES ANNOUNCED FOR CHRISTMAS DECORATION

Two $50 prizes and four $25 awards are to be given to Carmel merchants for Christmas window decorations this year says Walt Pilot in charge of the Business Association's decoration contest.

The $50 awards go to the best professionally decorated window and to the best amateur window. Twenty-five dollar prizes will go to windows judged best in the following classes; international, real estate, miniature, and most original.

Judges will be a grade school pupil, high school student, out of town person, an artist and a retired resident of Carmel. Judging will take place after December 22.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The source of true wisdom and intelligence will be set forth at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson - Sermon entitled "God the Only Cause and Creator."

Scripture passages will include the following from Psalms (104:-24): "O Lord, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches."

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (275:-14): "All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause, and effect belong to God. These are His attributes, the eternal manifestations of the infinite divine Principle, Love. No wisdom is wise but His wisdom; no truth is true, no love is lovely, no life is Life but the divine; no good is, but the good God bestows.

The Golden Text is from Hebrews (3:4): "Every house is builded by some man; but he that built all things is God."

Youth Center Offers Free Baby Sitting Service Dec. 17 - 20

Carmel Youth Center members have made arrangements for Santa Claus to be at The Studio on Dolores Street between Ocean Avenue and Seventh Street from 7:00-9:00 o'clock on the evenings of December 17, 18, 19, 20. Children 12 years of age and younger are invited to come to see him and receive candy and balloons and look at a continuous program of movie cartoons.

Free baby sitting will be provided by the Youth Center members, under the direction of Mrs. Bonnie Giles, during these hours as the Center's Christmas gift to the community. In previous years Youth Center members have given a variety show as their community Christmas gift but this year decided that the free baby sitting, freeing parents to shop and prepare for Christmas, would be a better present for the people of Carmel.

No child is too young to be left, Youth Center members state. Special arrangements being made for all children.

VIGIL

She laid the book open shining on the chair and left, and darkened the blue room:
"Sweet Themmes, run softly till I end my song."
Surely she will not leave this long unread.

Ah, her returning will illume all the dim chamber,
Where now even the etching of the three trees has lost its dusk luster.

Where now I trouble the strings to the cool patterns she loves.
But the song is nervous, wants the flute—
we need her silver treble.

Where can you be so late, Jean, in the storm,
Slow leaning rain about you, Jean,
the wide gray wall
persuading you longer yet from me?

—GROVE BECKER.

RETURN

Deirdre, in another dusk
Will we remember her?
The stirrings of her samite dress
Her hands that coolly would caress
Us with mimosa and myrrh.
We, whose hours are lost, forgetting
Long night's bourne and lapse of rain,
The tired leaves upon the wall
Stirred by the wind's uneasy fall—
Will she come back again?

—VIRGINIA FREED.

ALADDIN IN CARMEL

Re-printed below is a newspaper clipping, written by a roving reporter, who was greatly taken by the wondrous things displayed in Mr. Winter's shop, The Village Jeweler, on Dolores Street.

"Aladdin, lost in his cave and putting out his hand to the trees which bore the fruits of glorious color and fashioned of precious stones, was no more astounded than is the Carmel visitor who just happens into the 'ear-ring' shop. It can't be, one thinks, on being told that there is a place whose sole stock in trade is ear-rings. It is altogether unlikely that a merchant would say, 'This one thing I do', and then stick to ear-rings, of all things.

"And it isn't quite that way, really, because there are a few—a very few—other bits of jewelry to be found in this little cave. But these are far outshown by the main item, a piece de resistance which whets but never satisfies the appetite.

"Recently a New York salesman unloaded his sample cases before the doorway of this small establishment. He came as missionary to unknown parts, for isn't Carmel, California, a tiny hinterland village which tries hard but doesn't quite know how? On stepping inside, he fell back, dismayed. 'Oh, no!' was his shout of disbelief. There was no need for missionary work here—not in his department, anyhow.

"'The Village Jeweler', whose astute owners have collected all this loot and put it under one roof, literally has the largest and most surprising display of ear-rings in the United States. No foolin'. And it takes a mighty stout-hearted woman to pass up the feast.

"Did your grandmother own some beautifully wrought bracelets of soft gold, with classic designs running through the pattern? And, having had these appraised, have you taken them down to the bank for safe keeping? You can match them here in ear-rings, and at a painless price. Persons knowing the value of Grandma's keep-sakes will be properly impressed at the ear-rings you have chosen to go with them, and you can save the price of an extra safety deposit box.

"Every color of the spectrum, softly muted, is here, in ascending or descending scale, as to hues and shades and tints. If it's azure or lapis Lazuli or rose or emerald or amethyst or topaz or gold or silver you prefer, you mention it. At once you find yourself in the predicament of the fellow who likes pie and is let loose in the cafeteria where the chef has out-done himself this day with apple and peach and cherry and lemon and chocolate and gooseberry and blueberry and raisin and custard and currant, and squash and mince. He can't eat them all but he's happier than larks in the pop-corn.

"There are whole trays of each color, quite by itself. And these range in style from what you would wear to your Grand-Aunt Emma's tea for the ladies' knitting group to something dazzling for a night on the town in company with six drunken sailors. You accept a lapful of jewels from the trusting soul who is the proprietor and have yourself a big time. All HE has to do is hope your check won't bounce.

"There is something barbaric in almost every female. She 'hates' jewelry, maybe, but when she says 'jewelry' she almost never means little things to stick in her ears. Count the number of women you see who are not wearing brooches, bracelets, rings, necklaces or tiaras but who are wearing ear-rings. That's because The Little Woman feels kind of undressed without them. The Village Jewelers is for the likes of her. And it's worth the trip — from ANY distance. A Christmas shoppers' paradise."—Adv.

Carmel was to contribute toward Monterey's new jail has been going on since last winter.

In the 41 years of its incorporated life, the City of Carmel has rigorously resisted the idea of a jail of its own, as it has resisted various other uncheerful manifestations of the realities of existence. It has always boarded its prisoners in somebody else's jail, usually Monterey's. But every time Monterey P. D. had a busy day and Carmel brought over one of its candidates, Monterey would say: "We're getting too crowded. We're not going to be able to take your prisoners next year. Why don't you buil a jail of your own?" But it's always ended with Monterey's renewing the contract—at a higher fee.

Last year Monterey decided it really did have to build a new jail and invited Carmel to contribute a fabulous sum toward the construction. The city council made noises about building a jail of our own, which didn't fool anybody. Then Chief of Police Clyde Klaumann said his friend, the Chief of Police in Pacific Grove, would take in Carmel's few prisoners, if it came to that. It didn't come to that. Either Monterey discovered it has a sisterly feeling for little Carmel, or has grown attached to our prisoners, or maybe they like the $10.50. The new deal was worked out, and last night the council told City Attorney John Morse to go ahead and fix up the papers.

The council bought: a dump truck for the street department, $3,000-$4,000, cost depending on which of four bids the committee accepts; a compressor for the street department, (approximately $4,000); a roofing job for the fire house, $175, and a paint job ($300-$600); a new police car, Plymouth, ivy green, $1300 plus old car.

Mayor Chitwood said he thought he'd appoint a citizens committee to study annexation which the outlying districts are talking about again. The last time the council appointed a citizens committee, it was for the city plan, and when the citizens committee saw their suggestions embodied in Lawrence Livingston, Jr.'s Master Plan for Carmel, they were as aghast as everybody else.

Ten citizens signed a letter to the council asking for a noise abatement ordinance because a neighbor has musical decorations that produce Christmas Carols over and over again. Chief Klaumann said that it was being handled by the district attorney.

Council gave final reading to the new interim ordinance which gives the planning commission power to demand open space for landscaping around new construction in the building district; an ordinance requiring setbacks for commercial construction, and an ordinance prohibiting use of fire hydrants by contractors without a permit.

They said no to Rolleston West who wanted the city to switch the rain water drainage off his property his way while the council wanted to do it the city engineer's way. On the recommendation of the planning commission, the council refused Howard Healey permission to put up an additional sign at his Town House Lodge since he already has sign footage in excess of the ordinance allowance. City Clerk Larry Rose warned that Mr. Healey will appeal the decision. They disagreed with Mrs. T. N. Conley, Jr., who thinks the pine at Monte Verde near Palou is dead, hazardous and should come out. —Wilman Cook.

Craig Appointed To Library Board

to the council when his second term expired in 1954. He wanted to make way for someone else, he said, because he believes that the more citizens who have experience in government, the better for democracy.

In addition to his valuable administrative experience, Mr. Craig brings to the library board a knowledge of books, and sincere appreciation of them. He has a Spanish American library of his own, discriminately selected over the years. One of his interests is in bookbinding.

His summers have been devoted to graduate study in Spanish and American History at the University of California, while between sessions, and on week ends he goes to the Russian River where he is remodelling a summer cabin for himself and his wife, Monnette.

His knowledge of Spanish Americana makes him a valued member of the Monterey History and Art Association, of which he is vice president. He is also editor of the association's quarterly magazine.
